Merriam-Webster defines the verb 'teach' as 'to instruct by precept, example, or experience'. Teachers, however, can expand beyond the confines of that definition to impart much deeper knowledge through their 'influence,' which is defined as 'the power or capacity of causing an effect in indirect or intangible ways', and, 'an emanation of spiritual or moral force'.

This month's Gem taught classical ballet for thirty-six years, her retirement to commence upon her last recital on the 4th of April. The recital, as well as final classes and rehearsals, did not go forward due to the coronavirus. Tears began to flow when our Gem spoke of her heartbreak because her students didn't have their moment under the stage lights to showcase the While her last class may not take the memory of their last recital into adulthood, they likely will take with them values and spirituality more lasting, precious, and impactful to their adult life, all imparted by their teacher's influence.

Due to the current COVID-19 pandemic, Relay for Life of Hancock County hosted a drive by Luminaria event. Luminarias honor every life touched by cancer and are dedicated to loved ones’ lost and those still battling cancer. Relay co-captain Bernie Cullen said Tuesday that more than 400 bags and 93 business-sponsored cancer education signs lined the streets. So far this year, Relay has raised more than $18,000. Donations can be made at www.relayforlife.org/hancockms. As a result of Friday’s event, the team also donated more than 500 pounds of canned goods to the Hancock County Food Pantry and the blessings box at Ruth’s Roots, she said. The cans were used to hold down the Luminarias.

Farmers Market back to regular setup

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Farmers Market is back to its regular set-up, coordinator David Kenny said.

On April 25, the market, which had been closed since March 27, operated as a drive-thru only, while Gov. Tate Reeves’ “Shelter-In-Place” was still in effect.

However, Reeves’ “Safer-At-Home” order took effect Monday, April 27, which eased some of the restrictions previously placed on businesses during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Kenny said there are barriers and tape to help with social distancing guidelines. Vendors are also adhering to health guidelines set forth by the Mississippi State Department of Health and the Centers for Disease Control.

Each booth is separated accordingly, he added.

Farmers Market patrons can walk up to booths, but groups are limited to no more than 10 people, Kenny said.

“If you’re sick, feel bad, or coughing, don’t come,” he said.

The Hancock County Farmers Market is located at 3068 Longfellow Rd., Bay St. Louis and is open every Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon.

Learn more about the market through Facebook at Hancock County Farmers Market.

COVID-19 cases in MS surpass 8,000

SEA COAST ECHO

The Mississippi State Department of Health (MSDH) on Tuesday reported 330 new cases of COVID-19 in the state and 32 new deaths, with no new cases or deaths in Hancock County.

“Mississippi’s total of COVID-19 cases since March 11 now stands at 8,207, with 342 deaths,” according to an MSDH statement Tuesday. “The number of Mississippians currently hospitalized with confirmed COVID-19 infection has risen to 452.”

Hancock County now has a total of 68 cases of COVID-19 with five deaths. Six of those cases and three of the deaths occurred in long-term care facilities, according to MSDH’s latest figures.

Fifty of the new cases reported Tuesday were among residents in long-term care facilities, and there are now 111 active outbreaks of COVID-19 in long-term care facilities, MSDH officials said

The MSDH has begun releasing data on patients who have been “presumed” recovered from the virus. Currently, 4,421 of the Mississippians who were previously afflicted with COVID-19 are “presumed recovered” from the disease. The recovery number is based on data through May 3.

As of 6 p.m. on May 4, 80,308 Mississippians had been tested for the virus.

Bay Council eyes ways to shore up budget after COVID-19 related revenue loss

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Bay St. Louis City Council members voted unanimously in special session on Tuesday to take a temporary 20 percent pay cut in the face of nearly $1.8 million in projected revenue losses this fiscal year due to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic. Unfortunately, Mayor Mike Favre said, city attorney Heather Smith discovered Wednesday that — while state statutes determine the council members’ salaries — it does not allow them to reduce it, even temporarily.

Favre on Tuesday presented the council with a worst-case scenario based on the loss of sales tax, gaming revenues, building permits, court fines and rentals through September, if the local economy doesn’t start moving again.

“We’re planning ahead,” Favre said. “We’re looking at it from every angle. We’re watching our pennies very closely and we’re going to get through this. We’re planning for the new budget year in September. In the worst-case scenario, we’re planning out with no casino revenues, a reduction in sales taxes. We’re looking at over a million dollars in lost revenue between when we shut down (in mid-March) through September. With that, we’ve got to make as many non-essential cuts in the budget as we can.”

“We know we’re losing revenue ...,” Favre told council members Tuesday, “but this is strictly speculation at the moment. I think if the casinos could come back,” it would greatly improve the situation.

The Mississippi Gaming Commission ordered all casinos in the state closed in mid-March due to the pandemic. Commission Executive Director Allen Godfrey said last week that although Gov. Tate Reeves has begun easing some of the COVID-19 restrictions, there is still not a scheduled date for casinos to reopen.

Under current projections, Favre said, with the casinos closed and sales taxes down drastically, the city is on track to lose a total of $1,718,232 over the next six months.

That would include $111,382 in lost revenue for the month of April; $226,186 in May; $260,365 in June; $274,448 in July; $274,448 in August; and $274,448 in September.

“At this point in time, we really don’t know how serious things are going to get or when they’re going to improve,” Ward 4 Councilman Larry Smith said Wednesday. “We do know that not having the casino money or taxes coming in, it’s really hurting, because that’s a third of our income. We really want to save as much money out of our budget as we can and see where we can cut if we have to so that in the worst-case .. we can be proactive instead of reactive.”

“We really don’t know from a revenue standpoint where we are, so it’s hard to budget ...,” Ward 1 Councilman Doug Seal said Wednesday. “At the end of the day, if it continues, what will happen, I don’t know. We don’t intend to just cut at random.”

“We do have some projects moving forward that are already fully-funded with grants and GOMESA funds, Tidelands funds and things like that,” Favre said Thursday. “The harbor (expansion) project is going to begin in the next couple of weeks, we have all the funds secured for that. The sidewalk project on Washington Street, the sidewalk on Beyer Drive, we want to move forward on those, as well. The funding for the Beyer sidewalk is secured — funded through the MDOT “Safe Routes to School” program — and we have the matching funds set aside for that. We do believe we’re going to be alright.”

Seal said council members went through the budget line-by-line on Tuesday, looking for places where the budget could be cut if necessary.

“We know what we’ve got today,” Seal said. “Hypothetically, we can last another three months the way we are right now. In a couple of months, we’ll have a better idea of where we’re going to be and what we need to do. ... There were no hard decisions (at the meeting) other than we all did agree we would take a 20 percent pay cut (which is now moot). We’ll continue to assess as we go.”

The current annual salary for Bay St. Louis City Council members is $16,800, plus $1,200 for the president of the council.

“We do have a reserve fund with a little over $700,000,” Seal said. “We’re looking to keeping as much of that as possible ... but we’ll do what we need to do. We certainly don’t want to leave a million dollars in the bank but cut employees. ... We’ll make cuts from daily expenses, not personnel.”

Seal said Favre and his administration would take all the council’s budget suggestions under consideration and come back with more data and proposals at the meeting next week.

“It’s kind of like we’re in a storm right now,” Seal said. “The water’s a little rough, but it’s not time to abandon ship. It’s not doomsday. It’s a bump in the road.”

Favre said he and his staff will have more budget suggestions for the council at next Tuesday’s meeting, but he believes the future will be a bit brighter than the “worst-case” projections.

“The governor’s executive (Safer at Home) order is due to expire on the 11th of May,” Favre said. “He’s waiting, I guess, to see what’s coming from the president. “He’s looking at opening some things, maybe, before his order expires, maybe give a little more leniency to restart the economy.”

“Our little shops right now can open, with social distancing and everything like that. We’re trying to get some outdoor seating for our restaurants, maybe work out something like 50 percent seating for dining in to keep people far enough apart.

“We’ve got this other major disaster right now going on locally here, with he (Bonnet Carre) spillway opening. It really hurt these businesses last year. ... We’re trying to work with the governor to get some things open sooner rather than later.

“Again, there are still some businesses that are shut down. We need to get them open and start moving forward.”

As for whether opening up will expose more people to risk of contracting the virus, Favre said, everyone just has to use common sense and be respectful.

“The people just need to use common sense,” he said, “and if you’re at risk, please stay home and stay safe. The people that don’t feel they’re at risk also need to use common sense. Just be cautious when you’re around people and be respectful to each other.

“Let’s all use common sense. Let’s not put all the burden on the businesses — you’ve got to help.”

Last Friday night, too many people gathered outside Beach Boulevard businesses, and many of them weren’t wearing masks or practicing social distancing, so he authorized the Bay Police Department to disperse the crowd.

“The p.d. is working on getting with all the beach businesses,” Favre said. “We’ll have a couple of officers up there again this weekend, trying to keep ‘em moving. “The beach is open — get your food and take it to the beach, if you want. The p.d. will be there trying to help the businesses monitor everything so we all stay safe.”

• All employees will be screened daily at the beginning of their shifts, including asking whether they have been in contact with a confirmed case of COVID-19 in the past 14 days and whether they had a fever in the last 48 hours.

• Cloth masks must be provided to all employees who come in direct contact with customers. Employees are required to wear masks throughout their shifts.

• All employees must be provided training on how to limit the spread of COVID-19.

• No more than 50 percent seating capacity in both indoor and outdoor dining areas, and floor plans must be updated to ensure at least six feet between each group. Party sizes will be limited to no more than six people per table.

• Bars and bar areas that do not offer food services are to remain closed.

• Minimizing person-to-person contact through technology, like mobile or online reservations and contact-less payment, is encouraged.

• Customers will be screened upon entry. Restaurants and bars must post signage at each entrance stating no customer with a fever or COVID-19 symptoms are allowed in.

• Cafeteria-style buffets and food stations that are manned by restaurant staff are allowed with appropriate barriers to limit contact. Self-service buffets, food stations, and drink stations are prohibited.

• All restaurants and bars must place hand sanitizer at all entrances, hostess stations, in/near bathrooms, and at cashier stations.

OUTDOOR RECREATION:

• Gatherings are limited to a maximum of 10 people for indoor activities and a maximum of 20 people for outside activities.

• Parks can open to the public from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m for outdoor recreation under guidance from the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries, and Parks and local authorities with people following social distancing guidelines such as six feet separation. Outdoor recreations activities, such as swimming, are also allowed within those same hours.

Reeves added that barbershops and salons remain ordered closed at this time.

“These are small family-owned businesses for the most part,” he said. “They are hurting. I have asked our health experts, lawyers, and industry leaders 100 different ways we might reopen them. We will get there, but I can’t do that today.”

Reeves said he has asked his team to come up a plan to “get some stabilization money out to salon employees and barbers from the CARES Act funds.

2019 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report
City of Bay St. Louis
PWS#: 0230001
April 2020

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Kim Favre at 228.467.5505. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the first and second Tuesdays of each month at 5:30 PM at City Council Chambers.

Our water source is from wells drawing from the Graham Ferry Formation & Pascagoula Formation Aquifers. The source water assessment has been completed for our public water system to determine the overall susceptibility of its drinking water supply to identify potential sources of contamination. A report containing detailed information on how the susceptibility determinations were made has been furnished to our public water system and is available for viewing upon request. The wells for the City of Bay St. Louis have received a moderate susceptibility ranking to contamination.

We routinely monitor for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table below lists all of the drinking water contaminants that were detected during the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2019. In cases where monitoring wasn't required in 2019, the table reflects the most recent results. As water travels over the surface of land or underground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive materials and can pick up substances or contaminants from the presence of animals or from human activity; microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, that may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife; inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm-water runoff, industrial, or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming; pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm-water runoff, and residential uses; organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations and septic systems; radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities. In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. It's important to remember that the presence of these contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Action Level - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - The "Maximum Allowed" (MCL) is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - The "Goal"(MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) – The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary to control microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) – The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk of health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

* Most recent sample. No sample required for 2019.

We are required to monitor your drinking water for specific constituents on a monthly basis. Results of regular monitoring are an indicator of whether or not our drinking water meets health standards. In an effort to ensure systems complete all monitoring requirements, MSDH now notifies systems of any missing samples prior to the end of the compliance period.

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Our water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>. The Mississippi State Department of Health Public Health Laboratory offers lead testing. Please contact 601.576.7582 if you wish to have your water tested.

To comply with the “Regulation Governing Fluoridation of Community Water Supplies”, our system is required to report certain results pertaining to fluoridation of our water system. The number of months in the previous calendar year in which average fluoride sample results were within the optimal range of 0.6-1.2 ppm was 5. The percentage of fluoride samples collected in the previous calendar year that was within the optimal range of 0.6-1.2 ppm was 42%.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. These substances can be microbes, inorganic or organic chemicals and radioactive substances. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency’s Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1.800.426.4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline 1.800.426.4791.

The City of Bay St. Louis works around the clock to provide top quality water to every tap. We ask that all our customers help us protect our water sources, which are the heart of our community, our way of life and our children’s future.

Mother's Day

It's not easy being a mother. If it were easy, fathers would do it." — Dorothy Zbornak, "The Golden Girls"

This year, Mother's Day snuck up on me. Although to be fair, it usually does.

With all that's going on in the world right now, it's more easy to forget those special holidays.

Since early March, I haven't been able to be in the same room as my parents. With my dad's compromised immunity and the fact that my mom is his only caregiver right now, I don't want them possibly exposed.

Some might think that's extreme, and people are certainly entitled to their opinion, but I'm not taking any chances when it comes to their health right now.

My mom is pretty great and I don't think she realizes that she is the glue that holds our family together.

Throughout the past seven years, when my dad's health took a turn for the worst, she has never left his side.

It's not easy being a caregiver. My dad can be quite the ornery character. (Love ya, Daddy!) To be fair, so can my mom Love ya, Mama!).

That's one thing I've learned, as through the years, our roles have sort of reversed and I've become their "parent," that they are both pretty tough to manage. (Again, love you both!)

I watched and listened to her frustrations through the years. It's hard feeling helpless when your loved one is experiencing something that we have no control

Staff Column

My mom, nor my sister or I, are therapists so it can be difficult to understand the things my dad has gone through or how to properly help him.

But, despite the hardships, my mom has stood up to the task.

I think my sister and I were pretty easy children to raise, well my sister was more of the problem child, (Love ya, sis!).

She was a stay-at-home mom up until I started college in 2001. It was nice having my mom around.

During the summers, she took us on adventures and, my personal favorite, took us to the library to participate in the annual Summer Reading program. I was always trying to beat out everyone and read the most books.

When I was a kid, I remember waking her up to watch "Mouseercise," an aerobics program on the Disney channel featuring all our favorite Disney characters.

There are so many memories and I cherish them all.

Right now, one of my favorite things to watch is how she is with my nephew. She is certainly more of a pushover with him, but I love watching their relationship develop.

He absolutely adores her. After his last visit, he told us that he misses Maw Maw the most.

I'm so glad that my nephew gets the opportunity to really get to know his grandparents. My grandparents played such an important role in my life. I am grateful I was able to spend as much time with them as I did. I miss them every day.

I'm very grateful for my mom and I know I don't tell her often enough. I know she probably thinks I'm being too strict on them right now, given her reaction when I tell them "no." But, like they always told me, I make these type of decisions out of love and with their best interests at heart.

I am beyond blessed in the parent department. It sometimes makes me feel guilty when I hear stories of people who come from homes where the parents are often abusive or just don't care.

Thank you, Mama, for always taking care of us, loving us the way you do, and for never giving up on our family, even when the odds didn't seem like they were in our favor.

Happy Mother's Day to all the mothers out there. Thank you for all you do for your families and a special thanks to all the mother figures out there who have become a guiding light for many that are not their biological children.

Stay safe and healthy.

Wicker Outlines Priorities for Reopening Economy

President Trump's Guidelines and More Testing Will Pave the Way for Recovery

Americans should be proud of the progress our country has made against the coronavirus. The strict measures we have taken have slowed the spread of the pandemic and kept our health-care system from being overwhelmed. However, these gains have come at a severe cost to our economy, our livelihoods, and our communities. The relief packages have been helpful and necessary, but what Americans really need is to get back to their jobs.

Reopening our economy does not mean ignoring the virus. We can, and must, continue to be smart about the pandemic while getting back to work.

I recently met with Governor Tate Reeves, who has been a great partner in managing the response to the crisis. He and other governors have had to balance aggressively fighting the pandemic while getting our economy back on track.

At the national level, President Trump has released a plan advising states to reduce the restrictions in three phases. I am eager to see this plan implemented in ways that best suit each state.

A GRADUAL RETURN TO NORMAL LIFE

The White House recommends that states meet certain conditions before opening up their economies again. These include having a downward trend in COVID-19 cases for 14 days and stable hospital conditions.

From the Senate

In Phase One of the plan, employees unable to work remotely may return to work gradually.

Large venues like restaurants, movie theaters, sporting arenas, gyms, and churches are allowed to reopen while following social distancing guidelines.

Elective surgeries may resume on an outpatient basis. However, all vulnerable individuals, including the elderly, will need to continue staying home.

If states do not see a rebound in COVID-19 cases, the President recommends starting Phase Two. In this phase, schools and organized youth facilities, like camps and daycares, have permission to start up again. Non-essential travel is allowed to resume and bars may host customers at a reduced capacity. Employees will still be encouraged to work from home if at all possible, and social distancing will need to continue in all public spaces.

If there is still no rebound in cases, the President recommends Phase Three. At this point, every worker may return to the workplace and vulnerable individuals are permitted to go out in public again. Large venues are allowed to operate with reduced social distancing, and senior care facilities and hospitals may once again welcome visitors.

MORE TESTING IS NEEDED

To make this reopening and recovery possible, we need a huge expansion of testing. This will allow health-care professionals to diagnose and isolate those who are infected so that the vast majority of Americans can get back to work and resume their social lives safely. Recently Congress approved $25 billion to help expand testing as part of the latest coronavirus relief package.

As our country ramps up testing and private companies race to develop vaccines and effective treatments, we can begin returning to normal life while taking precautions to minimize risks.

The conditions-based approach developed by the Trump administration and being implemented by states like Mississippi will go a long way toward getting America on the road to recovery.

Mississippi to get 4,000 Face Masks, Thanks to Bass Pro

Bass Pro Shops and Cabela's are teaming up with Convoy of Hope, a non-profit organization, to donate one million face masks to COVID-19 health care workers.

The Mississippi Department of Health will receive 4,000 of those face masks for distribution in the Jackson and Pearl area.

Convoy of Hope is utilizing its national network of partners and volunteers to identify appropriate local hospitals and medical facilities, and help distribute the masks based on area needs and demands.

Johnny Morris, the founder of Bass Pro Shops, is personally donating the FDA-approved ASTM Level 1 Procedure face masks. "We are extremely grateful to our nation's health care workers serving on the front lines of this unprecedented global health crisis," said Morris.

By James L. Cummins

I have gotten to know Johnny and his son, John Paul, who is a graduate of the University of Mississippi.

Johnny got his start in 1972 by selling fishing tackle using 8 square feet of space in the back of his father's store. Today, Bass Pro Shops not only has a shop in Pearl, Mississippi, but a total of almost 200 stores with more than 200 million visitors daily. As one can easily see with this donation of masks, Johnny and his family are generous people. We are both in the Boone and Crockett Club and I will sometimes sit next to him in meetings. He will have two notepads—one to take notes about the meeting and one to write down ideas about what he is working on or a next project.

He is one of the most visionary conservation leaders I know. I also have a great respect for how he grew up—his humble beginnings. His father, a decorated World War II veteran, loved to hunt and fish and taught Johnny that hunting and fishing fostered a special respect and appreciation for wildlife and our natural world. That is easy to see, from every Bass Pro store to Dogwood Canyon to Big Cedar Lodge to his Wonders of Wildlife Museum and Aquarium in Springfield, Missouri.

Johnny's passion, leadership, personal commitment, and dedication to conservation is tremendous. He is one of our Nation's largest donors—in both time and financial resources—to fish and wildlife conservation efforts. He is a strong believer in getting our Nation's young people introduced to the outdoors and all the rewards they have to offer.

I personally would like to thank Johnny, his wife Jeanie, and John Paul for making this great Nation a better place to live, work, and raise a family. It is their sincerity and generosity, such as donating these masks, that brightens up a dark day. I don't have all of the answers, but I do know that the more people in our great nation with traits like these, the better off our nation will be.

County reopens fishing piers

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors on Monday re-opened the county’s fishing piers to the public. The board asks that people follow social distancing guidelines as laid out by the Centers for Disease Control and the Mississippi State Department of Health. The county’s pavilions and restrooms facilities remain closed at this time. The board recessed Monday’s meeting until Monday, May 11 at 5 p.m.

to be a ballerina. I was taking ballet five days a week. I gave up everything else and focused on ballet. I started going to summer intensive workshops for six to eight weeks. I was real serious about it,” Sharon related.

A job transfer to Port Bienville Industrial Park brought Sharon’s parents to Bay St. Louis when Sharon was a freshman at Texas Christian University, one of a handful of schools with a degreed ballet program. Her younger brother joined Loiacano’s Health Club, and through her brother she met her future husband, Jimmy. Marrying and settling in Bay St. Louis, though, derailed her budding professional ballerina career.

“There are no professional companies around here, so Jimmy said, ‘You love kids, why don’t you teach?’ It was just a natural switch to take what I love and teach it to kids,” Sharon said. “I never would have looked forward and said, ‘I’m going to be a teacher,’ but then, once that happened, it struck something in my heart that performing had never struck before. Teaching kids and sharing the beauty of ballet with them actually taught me more about my art. You have to be so purposeful and think about what you’re doing and why you’re doing it. It took me to another level of love for the art that I didn’t have before I taught.”

Her love for ballet is rooted in the uniqueness of the art.

“It’s an incredible art,” she said. “It’s been around for over 500 years and has changed very little. You can take a classical ballet class anywhere in the world and know what you’re doing if you’re classically trained, even if you don’t speak their language, which is an amazing thing. There’s very little in the world now that’s still around like that.”

Sharon opened her studio in 1984 as The Ballet Place, on the corner of Necaise and Easterbrook, in a building that used to be her father-in-law’s grocery. She started with 50 students and quickly outgrew the building. In 1991 she built a new studio on the corner of Main and Necaise and changed the name to The Coast Youth Ballet Academy. The biggest change was yet to come.

“About 10 years into the studio, it’s like God had a talk with me and said, ‘Why do people separate what they do from Me? I gave you this gift, I gave you all the opportunities, the training, the experience. I gave it all to you. Why don’t you do it openly and fully for Me?’” Sharon said. “That’s when I started getting away from secular ballets, which is what I grew up on and what I performed all my life. God started showing me how to do what I do, openly for Him and purposely out loud. He put dance in us and He wants us to do it in a way that honors Him.”

“That next year I did a ballet about creation and that was the first year I started doing it openly and out loud,” Sharon said. “After that He started giving me stories. I would integrate the classics into the recitals, but use the classics to point people to Jesus. Our theme became, ‘Let them praise His name with dancing...’ (Psalm 149:3) and my advanced ensemble began to share the gift of liturgical ballet in many local churches. After a while, our religious theme became what Coast Youth Ballet Academy was known for,” Sharon said.

Sharon’s influence spread beyond ballet.

“I knew as a parent it was hard to find places where I could feel like my child was not just getting coached or taught, but also, that she was being mentored and disciplined for Jesus,” she said.

Sharon began to integrate prayer and Bible teaching into all her classes and even began to write and lead Bible studies for her advanced dancers.

“After an hour and 45 minute class, for them to want to stay another half hour and do our Bible study, and to do daily homework for the Bible study - that’s huge!”

Sharon said.

Sharon’s eyes lit up when she spoke of her student’s spiritual experiences she witnessed, on stage and off, but one story came from a surprising source.

“My favorite was about a dad, and that’s something because the dads dreaded coming to the ballet,” she said. “I had this dad come up to me right after the performance and he was crying, and he said, ‘I had forgotten my faith. Seeing my beautiful daughter up there looking prettier than I’ve ever seen her look in her whole life, and dancing for Jesus, reminded me I had forgotten God in my own life.’”

The Academy’s reputation and enrollment continued to grow, until August 29th, 2005.

“About 150 students was the biggest I got before Katrina. After Katrina I downsized on purpose. I just started praying and asking God to give me the number of students I could handle because everything was so stressful. The studio had flooded and we had lost our house.”

Her prayers to get the dance studio reopened quickly for the mental health of her students were answered by volunteers from far away.

“A church in Pennsylvania adopted our family and they wanted to see my studio made whole and our house made whole,” Sharon said. “They came down the second week in January, 2006, with an 18-wheeler with the flooring, the doors, and volunteers. We reopened near the end of January. We repainted with the exact same colors because I felt like the kids needed to come back to what they remembered and that was a huge thing. When they walked in they all cried and said, ‘It’s the same, Miss Sharon!’ That was important because everything else had changed. I wanted them to have that safe place to come back to where they got to do the thing they loved.”

reer. As important as it was to teach the skills required to excel on stage, the assumption that Sharon’s goal was to propel students on to careers in professional dancing would be wrong.

“If a girl or boy wanted to be a professional dancer, I would do whatever I needed to do to help her or him do that, but it wasn’t my goal to make all my kids professional dancers,” Sharon said. “So, when my dancers got in high school, many would say, ‘Miss Sharon, I love ballet so much, but I don’t want to be a professional dancer. When I go to college, I don’t know what I’m going to do.’ I’d say, ‘Well, if you love it, keep doing it until it gets in the way of something else God wants you to do more.’”

Her life lessons seem so simple, but mean so much. Sharon made a habit of repeating to her students of all ages, “Remember that God loves you, remember that you were put on this earth for a purpose for Him and that’s what matters.”

Succeeding in that purpose was framed in terms of ballet movement.

“Do not allow yourself to put your foot down in a turn. Just don’t give yourself that option. If you give yourself the option to fall, you’re gonna, every time,” Sharon would emphasize. “And then I would tell them, ‘You can look at life that way. Don’t assume the option of failure. Assume you can do it well.’”

Of all her influential messages, she repeated one so much that a student made a plaque with her words, “Why do anything if you’re not going to do your best?”

Classical ballet classes often conclude with a moment of reverence, in which ballerinas show respect to the instructor – often with applause. The thousands of children and young adults she has touched are, no doubt, now giving her a cheerful standing ovation.

In a final moment of somber reflection, Sharon summed up what she hopes her life has meant to the thousands of girls she has taught and influenced.

“I wanted what I do on this planet to have some eternal value. Teaching ballet, well, it’s just ballet in the big scheme of things, but if it can have some eternal values for these kids, then that became my first and last purpose,” she said. “And I wanted them to know that I loved them and that God loved them enough to sacrifice his Son, Jesus, for them. If I did those things, then I did good.”

Instead of dwelling on the disappointment of having to cancel the final recital, Sharon revels in the memories of her and her thousands of students serving the Lord. A tear of joy emerged as Sharon summed up her career, saying, “The Lord has done great things for us, and we are filled with joy.” (Psalm 126:3).

Meet Billy. This sweet, shy boy is a work in progress, but worth every moment of our time, attention, and love. He apparently received very little positive human contact as a small puppy. At 10 months old, he is terrified of venturing outdoors, unless within the security of our doggie playground. He will take treats from our staff & volunteers, and relaxes when we stroke and pet him. He crawls into our laps and seeks comfort and love. He really wants to trust people, and with lots of attention he has gained confidence and felt secure with one of our kennel techs. He is initially submissive with other dogs, and will play briefly, but then he growls and asserts himself as dominant. However, we feel that he is exhibiting fear aggression. At this time, we are seeking a home with no other pets, and no small children. He is unlikely house or crate trained. Once in a home environment, we highly recommend setting up a crate indoors, so Billy has a "safe haven" while acclimating to his new home and family. A fenced backyard is a must, as sudden, unfamiliar noises or movements will spook him. A quiet home with adults only, or with mature, older children would be ideal for this sweet pup. He would be loving companion, especially for retirees or seniors. Billy needs a patient, understanding individual or family to take him under wing, and nurture him. In return, he will show you a lifetime of unconditional love. Please contact the shelter front desk at 228-466-4516, or message our Facebook page, Hancock County Animal Shelter, MS, to schedule a meet-n-greet with Billy. (The shelter is currently closed, so if you call, leave a message and we will get back to you.) We hope that Billy finds his hero very soon!

EDWARD “SAUNDERS” BELL
NICHOLAS CURRY
MR. GEORGE W. DAY
THELMA IRENE LEONARD GELIS

EDWARD “SAUNDERS” BELL

Edward “Saunders” Bell, 79, was a native of Bay St. Louis, MS all of his life. He was born April 6, 1941 in New Orleans, LA to John Bell and Daisy Talbert Bell. He was known to all his friends and relatives by many nicknames over the years such as Coach, Saunders, Mr.Ed, and Professor just to name a few.. He departed this life on Sunday April 26, 2020.

Saunders was a member of St. Rose De Lima Catholic Church. He enjoyed umpiring and refereeing sport events while coaching young men in multiple sports such as College Allstate basketball team and Bay Bandits of softball. He had local players and some from as far as New Orleans, LA. Saunders played most sports as a child and in his senior years, he engaged in most television sports and spending time at Casino Magic (Hollywood Casino) pressing his luck. In addition, his greatest joy was shootin’ the breeze with his friends and creating laughter and lasting memories with those he loved.

Saunders had an extended employment stay as a crane operator for Brown and Root at the DuPont plant in DeLisle, MS. before retiring in 2009. He enjoyed teaching others the craft as he continued his education and training in this trade. He was the first black chauffeur for Stennis Space Center in the early 60s. He was preceded in death by his parents, John Bell and Daisy Bell and 5 siblings, Sidney Bell, Sharon, McGowan, Sandra Hubbard, Schwander Jones and Shellereen Hollins. His wife, Nellie C. Bell and two sons John Bell and Dexter Bell along with two great grand children.

He is survived by three siblings Sullivan Bell, Stephen Washington and Sterling Bell. His four children Keenan Bell, Peter Bell, Quinton Bell and Angelique Bell will miss their loving father and wait to see him again in heaven. Paw Paw Saunders will be affectionately recalled by his fourteen grandchildren and fifteen great-grandchildren. Uncle Saunders will be remembered by his vast family of nieces and nephews along with cousins and Friends. You will be forever in our hearts until we meet again! Love you!

NICHOLAS CURRY

Mr. Nicholas Curry, 33, was born November 19, 1986, in New Orleans, Louisiana. After a life of love and lasting memories, Nicholas departed this life, Thursday, April 23, 2020. Nicholas was a resident of the Mississippi Gulf Coast for more than 20 years. He was a graduate of Kankakee Illinois High School. After completing high school, Nicholas received his certification in bookkeeping. He was such an eclectic young man, having gifts and talents in a wide range of things. Nicholas received awards in horseback riding, he enjoyed bowling, baseball, fishing, playing his trumpet, and he loves playing video games. In addition to the things that Nicholas found joy in, volunteering at Gates to Success, was another pleasure of Nicholas’s. The life he lived was a good one, filled with faith and service to others, a reflections of a genuine human spirit. Nicholas has an outgoing personality; he never met a stranger. Though Nicholas’s life seems short lived, his family and friend are ever thankful for the time that they were blessed to spend with him. He is preceded in death by his grandparents, Harriet and Albert Curry, Sr. and a aunt, Leonardine Curry. MR. GEORGE W. DAY

Mr. George W. Day, age 85, passed from this life, surrounded by his loving wife, Irma Sones Day and other family members, at his home in Bayou La Croix on Friday, May 1st 2020. George was born February 19th , 1935 at his grandmother’s home on Market Street in Waveland, Mississippi. George, adoringly known to many as “Georgie, Slick, Bubba, Uncle Bubba, Uncle George, Daddy and Papa,” was a lifelong resident and community member of Hancock County. He attended Gulfview Elementary, Waveland Elementary, Bay High School, Pearl River Community College and Delgado College, where he completed his studies and earned a Drafting Degree. He spent many of his early childhood days galivanting throughout Hancock County with cousins and playing front porch music with lifelong friends. He was the oldest of seven children and absolutely adored his family, especially his grandmother Marie, mother Marie Evelyn and father who raised him, Chris Ladner. A self-taught and gifted bass player, George played for many years in the band, The Dixie Revelers, at the South Louisiana Hayride and many other venues. He loved sharing and reminiscing about the days that he played and shared the stage with several of the Grand Ole Opry country music legends. He served in the United States Army and was stationed in several areas in Europe. He was a 32 nd degree Mason and a member of the Bay St. Louis Masonic Lodge #429, a member of the Scottish Rights lodge, as well as a member of the Joppa Temple Shriners in Biloxi, Mississippi. On May 23rd , 1964, George married Irma Sones and together they have welcomed into their family two daughters, six grandchildren, and two great grandchilddren. He worked for several years at Tennessee Gas Company before opening up his family-owned feed and pet store, Day’s Frontier. Although George had many talents and enjoyed numerous passions in life such as working at the farm with his goats, driving freight trucks, building and welding his own equipment, cooking and trying new recipes, nothing compared to his love for family and music. He was a loving and ever-present husband, father, grandfather, brother, uncle, cousin and friend. He was overly giving of his “I love you’s” and placing his family above all else. George is preceded in death by his gracious mother, Marie Evelyn Bourgeois, his loving dad, Christopher Ladner and father, George Washington Day. Among those to cherish and keep his memories are his beloved wife of 55 years, Irma Sones Day; two daughters Lisa (Kevin) Carlisle, of Diamondhead, Miss. and Lora (Armand) Serpas of Kiln, Miss.; six grandchildren Morgan Necaie, Conner Saucier, Collyn Shiyou, Trevor Serpas, Tanner Serpas and Eric Carlisle; two great granddaughters, Mckinlee and Brynlee; siblings include Laura Ladner of Waveland, Miss., Carlos (Carol) Ladner of Bay Saint Louis, Miss., Marline (Bobby) Knesel of Kiln, Miss., Marie Green of Bay Saint Louis, Miss., Alice Ray of Lakeshore, Miss., Tommy (Trish) Ladner of Lakeshore,

Miss., along with many relatives and friends. Due to the global pandemic, the family of George Day had a private graveside service on Monday, May 4th , 2020 at 10 o’clock in the morning at the Bayou LaCroix Cemetery in Bay Saint Louis, Miss. The Day family would like to give a special thank you to Southern Care Hospice, and all nurses and doctors that cared for George during his final days. We are forever grateful for the love and compassion that George exemplified daily through his storytelling, life events, and memories, in which we will all hold near and dear to our hearts. Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis, MS was in charge of arrangements.

THELMA IRENE LEONARD GELIS

Thelma Irene Leonard Gelis, age 96, passed away peacefully on April 23, 2020 knowing that she was surrounded by loving family and friends even in the midst of the pandemic. For the past 3 years she had resided at Dunbar Village in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

She was born on June 21, 1923 in Carriere, MS before the advent of antibiotics, television or the internet. She went to school in flour sack dresses that her mother made for her, carrying a pail with a cold biscuit for lunch. She relished growing up on a small farm, wading in the creek and riding bareback.

Her parents were Clara Mae (Bradley) and Stephen Grey Leonard, who served in WWI and was gassed. Clara would take her children to visit her husband at a Veterans Hospital in Alexandria, LA where he died when Thelma was only 4 years old. Clara was widowed at an early age but proved to be a resilient and strong willed woman, traits she passed onto Thelma. Thelma was preceded in death by her seven siblings: Cammie, Edward Earl, Ruby, Mary, Dimple, Dot and Van Curtis. Early in life Thelma was given the nickname “Patsy” later shortened to “Pat” which is what her siblings, nieces and nephews always called her.

Growing up during the Great Depression, Thelma learned the importance of sharing whatever you had with neighbors. She watched as her mother bartered for a prized bag of oranges or traded a hen for a sack of oysters.

Thelma met her husband Gaston J.B. Gelis during WWII and, while he served in the U.S. Coast Guard, she moved to New Orleans to work at the Port of Embarkation in the war effort. After the war they lived in Slidell, LA. where she adjusted to being a part of a large French-speaking family. Thelma and J.B. were happily married for 51 years before his death in 1994.

Thelma is survived by her three children: Gwen Impson (John), Douglas Gelis (Nancy) and Tahmi Keir (Ralph 1949-2018). Her grandchildren and great-grandchildren include: Brett Landry (Sanjana and their children Raj and Meera), Amy DiMaggio (Andrew and their daughter Anna), Jesse Gelis (Claudia and their son Marcelo), Dan Gelis, Jason Keir (Michelle and their sons Joshua, Noah JB and Dylan), Barbara Keir Tucker (Antiwon and their sons Keir and Mays), and step granddaughter, Denise Smith (J.T.). She is also survived by her sister-in-law, Barbara Lovelace; numerous nieces and nephews all who called her their favorite aunt. Thelma’s lasting Christian faith and generous spirit inspired her to love deeply. Friends were too numerous to count and included her friends, her children’s friends and her grandchildren’s friends. She was everyone’s Maw-Maw.

Although Thelma died less than forty miles from where she was born she loved to travel first with her husband and then after his death with other family members. Her adventurous spirit took her to France, England, Switzerland, Alaska, Okinawa, Korea, Japan, China and Belize.

Thelma and her husband raised their children in New Orleans then retired to the Mis-issippi Gulf Coast. They loved spending time on the water and delighted in teaching their grandchildren to fish and crab. She lived in Waveland and then Bay St. Louis for the past five decades. Thelma spent her later years at Dunbar Village where she enchanted staff and continued to welcome her many visitors. Her family wishes to thank everyone at Dunbar Village for their kindness and care.

Thelma’s boundless love and endless optimism extended to all who knew her. It made her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren into the women and men they are today. Her legacy is love.

Thelma will be buried next to husband, J.B., in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Slidell, LA. The family plans to host a Celebration of Life at a future date.

In lieu of flowers, her family requests that donations be made in Thelma’s name to Macular Degeneration Foundation at support-brightfocus.org.

Please visit www.honakerforestlawn.com to sign guestbook. Arrangements by Honaker Funeral Home, Inc., Slidell, LA.

ARE YOU A PERSON OF BROTHERLY LOVE? BY GARY ANDREWS

I was raised with four brothers and one sister. These are my siblings through the family that my parents provided for me. We love each other unconditionally and always will because we were taught by our parents to do so. Even though we are getting up in our years and the Lord has called one brother home, we realize the importance of family and our love for each other.

Each of us took a different road in life and has made many, many new acquaintances and friends. We all found our true love to marry and produced a family of our own. A family bond is special and can never be broken if Christ is the center of your life and home. I thank God that all of my brothers and sister know Christ personally and each of their family members does as well.

Even though we have earthly families that we love and cherish, our heavenly family becomes a lot larger when we accept Christ as our Savior. Some of the friends we make along the way become like brothers and the bond between us grows as the years go by. Even though the love for family will never be the same for others, Christ tells us to have a brotherly love for everyone.

Through the years of my experience in the media business I have found many friends that have become very close to me. It may have been because we were in the same profession and understood the good and the bad experiences that come with that profession. It also could be that our thought processes were in line with each other and that we could always count on each other for guidance and information. Our dependence on each other not only pertained to our jobs but we learned to have a common friendship among ourselves and our families. For those of us that moved away from our physical family choose others to fill the void of not having close relatives around.

Jesus tells us in John 13:34-35, "A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. All men will know that you are my disciples if you love one another."

At times people come into our lives that are hard to love. Even though this happens almost on a daily basis, it should be our desire to love these people unconditionally as Christ loves us.

Many times a kind word, compassion, humility, gentleness, and patience will let these people understand that Christ loves them also and they can have a relationship with Him. It may be that they know Christ personally and have just taken their eyes off of Him for an instant and through our brotherly love for them can help guide them back to the straight and narrow road that Christ provides for us.

Christ tells us to love one another as He loves us. Are we being the person of love that He wants us to be?

Prayer: Thank you Lord for allowing me to be around people that loves you. I pray Lord that I will be a beacon for you and share brotherly love with everyone. Amen.

DAVID ALLEN TREUTEL

David Allen Treutel, age 85, passed away peacefully on May 3, 2020 in Daphne, AL surrounded by his loving family after a stroke and brief battle with cancer. He was born in New Orleans, LA, February 2, 1935, the only child of Peter J. Treutel Jr. and Mildred Schonekas Treutel.

At an early age, David and his parents moved to Hancock County, MS where they lived briefly in Logtown, MS before moving to Bay St Louis, which would become his home. Later, he moved to Diamondhead after Hurricane Katrina destroyed the family home. He attended St. Joseph Academy and spent elementary and high school at St. Stanislaus College, where he participated in several sports and clubs, including lettering all four years in the senior band as a trumpet player. He was awarded a US Navy ROTC scholarship and attended Tulane University, from where he graduated with a BBA in Accountancy in 1957. Shortly after, he married his college sweetheart, Karen Elizabeth Kergosien. David accepted a commission in the US Navy as a line officer on-board the USS Bayfield and moved with his new wife to California. Upon his honorable discharge, he received job offers from two national defense contractors in California, but he and Karen elected to return home to the Bay where he accepted positions with Peoples Federal Savings Bank and Treutel Insurance Agency. He also continued for over twenty years in the US Navy Reserve, ultimately serving as the commanding officer of the Naval Reserve in Gulfport and retiring with the rank of Commander.

Tragedy struck soon after his return to the Bay when his wife, Karen, just 27 years old, died suddenly from an aneurysm, leaving David with four children under the age of five. Three years later, fate smiled upon him when he married his soulmate, Pennie Herring Treutel. For almost 46 years, Pennie was his partner in everything: running the family businesses, raising their six children, and travelling with him around the world. In their later years, she helped him discover the beauty of Park City, UT.

David led two businesses, Peoples Federal Saving Bank and Treutel Insurance Agency, serving as President and Chairman for almost thirty years.

David was active in the reformation of the Hancock County and Mississippi Republican Party in the 1960s, serving as a delegate to the 1964 National Republican Convention in Miami, FL. He was an active member of his community, where he served on many different boards and organizations including the Mississippi Savings & Loan Association, US Savings & Loan Foundation, Mississippi Gulf Coast Crime Commission, Hancock Chamber of Commerce, Knights of Columbus, Krewe of Triton, American Heart Association, and Independent Insurance Agents of the Gulf Coast and Mississippi. He served as president of the St. Vincent de Paul Society during Hurricane Katrina. David was a lifelong Rotarian, serving for over 50 years in almost every position including president. He was recognized by his club as a Paul Harris Fellow.

As a lifelong Catholic, David served Our Lady of the Gulf Church as a lector and an usher as well as giving many years to the Parish Council and the OLG Elementary School Board. He was selected to serve on the Diocesan Executive Committee under Bishop Joseph Howze and Bishop Thomas Rodi. He also served over 10 years on the St. Stanislaus College School Board and was inducted into their Hall of Fame in 2008.

Even with this array of impressive achievements, the most important thing in David's life was his family. He was a loving Dad and Papa to his six children, sixteen grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren, with one more on the way. After Pennie died, he continued travelling with his children. He cherished his grandchildren, taking them on individual special excursions and providing them the Bay House for summer visits. During his last 19 months spent in Daphne, he was delighted to get to know some of his great-grandchildren on a more intimate level.

In addition to his parents, David was preceded in death by his first wife, Karen Kergosien Treutel, his second wife, Pennie Herring Treutel and his son, Cdr. Paul J. Treutel. David is survived by his children: David (Anna) Treutel Jr, Steve (Debbie) Treutel, Missy (Ted) Schmidt, Cathy (Steve) Kidd, and Suzy (Nick) Gachassin; and his grandchildren: Trey (Joy) Treutel, Alex Treutel, Hunter (Peyton) Treutel, Haleigh Treutel, Jennings (Misako) Treutel, Grace Treutel, Liam Treutel, Liza Treutel, Chase (Janna) Schmidt, Matthew Schmidt, Mary Margaret (Chris) Cartmill, Claire (Matthew) Lollis, Emily Schmidt, Caroline Gachassin, Adam Gachassin, and Bailey Kidd; and 8 great-grandchildren. The family would like to extend special thanks to Fr. Paddy Mockler, Fr. Sebastian Myladiyil, SVD, Dr. Steven Winston and Beverly Mann, RN, Hazel Smith, Stephanie Broughton, and Peggy Pierre at St Joseph Hospice for their dedicated service to David in his final weeks. Special thanks to his granddaughter Emily Schmidt for taking the night shift "Papa duty" for the last 9 weeks.

In lieu of flowers, memorials have been set up for David through Most Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Pass Christian, MS, Our Lady of the Gulf St. Vincent de Paul Society, Bay St. Louis, MS and Archangel Radio in Fairhope, AL.

A private graveside service is scheduled and a memorial mass and celebration of David's life is planned for a future date.

The RIEMANN FAMILY FUNERAL HOME, Kiln DeLisle Rd., Pass Christian, is serving the family and online tributes may be offered at www.riemannfamily.com

Logan steps down as baseball coach at SSC, Corley takes a step up

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

On Wednesday, the Saint Stanislaus baseball program underwent a change on the coaching staff when Mark Logan (SSC '86) announced he would not return as head coach for the 2021 season.

Logan, the program's winningest coach in history, stepped away from the dugout after 17 years as manager of the program with a record of 286-168, six Division 8-4A titles, two Class 4A South State titles and two Class 4A state championships (2010, 2015).

Logan talked about his tenure as head coach, "Today is bittersweet after leading this program for almost 20 years; however, I was truly blessed to have a daily relationship with a bunch of very special young men that worked very hard and were eager to learn and play hard to be successful. That is a true blessing and I would not trade that for all the relationships I have made along the way."

Saint Stanislaus acted quickly with regards to the departure elevating assistant coach Brad Corley to head coach.

Corley has been a full-time assistant coach at the school for the last five years specifically working with hitters.

Corley commented, "I have always dreamed of being a head coach and have worked extremely hard to prepare for this opportunity. To have this happen at Saint Stanislaus makes it even more special for both myself and my family. In my five years as a Rock-a-chaw, I feel that I have become part of the school and its great mission. I am fortunate and honored to follow in the footsteps of one of Mississippi's all-time great high school coaches, Mark Logan. He and I have become good friends during our coaching time together, and I am excited to continue building upon the Saint Stanislaus baseball tradition."

Corley first got his start in coaching as a volunteer assistant at SSC in 2010 when he was rehabilitating from Tommy John surgery as a professional baseball player. The Rocks went on to win their first Class 4A state title that spring.

Corley is a native of Louisville, Kentucky, and graduated from Pleasure Ridge Park High School where he played for Kentucky all-time winningest coach Bill

Brad Corley

Miller. He was named Gatorade Player of the Year in Kentucky in 2002.

Corley was drafted out of high school by the Colorado Rockies in the 16th round but opted to go to Mississippi State University where he played for Ron Polk.

He played at MSU from 2003-05 and was a first-team All-American in 2004. In 2005, Corley was drafted in the second round by the Pittsburgh Pirates and played in their organization for 4 1/2 years before being traded to the Rockies where he played from 2009-11.

He returned to MSU to complete his degree and coached one season as a student assistant in 2012. From 2013-15, Corley was the pitching coach for Gulfport High School. He has been on staff at SSC since the 2015-16 school year. In the classroom, Corley teaches math.

Saint Stanislaus Principal Gary Blackburn stated, "We are grateful for Coach Mark Logan's 17-year run as SSC baseball coach. He will remain as a full-time teacher with us and I believe he has great years ahead of him. In addition to his classroom duties, Coach Logan will coach football and work with the golf team. We are also blessed to have Brad Corley as an assistant coach who is ready to step up into the role of head coach. Coach Corley has worked with Coach Logan for five years and the baseball program is definitely in good hands."

Corley added, "As soon as we are able to, we will get back to work and focus on what we need to do to get better for next season. We have a great group of returning players. I am excited to get back to work on the field with them. They have always worked hard and done what they were asked to do, and I am confident that will continue even though my expectations of their work ethic will be very demanding. I want to thank Mark Logan for our years together, and, most of all I thank the Saint Stanislaus administration for putting their faith in me and giving me the opportunity. I am truly blessed to be in this position."

Baseball at SSC has been on campus since their first team was organized in 1896 and interscholastic competition began in 1903.
